

Teacher of Physics
Competitive salary plus benefits
For September 2023
Full Time
Contract

Notting Hill & Ealing High School, one of London's leading independent girls' day schools, has an exciting opportunity for an inspirational Teacher of Physics to contribute to a successful department in both its curricular and extra-curricular activities.

We are looking for a well-qualified Teacher of Physics with a passion for the subject and excellent subject knowledge, with good organisational and time management skills. If you are a good communicator who can enthuse and inspire about the teaching of Physics and the ways in which it can be further developed and encouraged, we would be delighted to hear from you.

Physics at NHEHS

Physics is valued highly at the school with excellent A level uptake and students frequently going off to top universities for further study such as Physics at Bristol, Maths and Physics at Imperial and Natural Sciences at Durham in recent years. The department fosters a love of physics from an early age with a dedicated science teacher in the Junior School. This passion develops in the Senior School through inspirational teaching alongside innovative subject activities, many of which are the initiative of our proactive Sixth Form Subject Representatives. For example, Astrophysics Club has attracted a devoted following among KS4 students, ably guided by the Physics Reps, and the Engineering Club for KS4 is always very popular. Science Week is also an annual high-profile highlight, with previous years' keynote speakers including Lord Winston and several Alumnae of the school who have gone on to science and physics careers.

Teaching at NHEHS

"Teaching here is all about being able to have in-depth conversations with students about your subject and helping to enthuse them with the same passion as you have. Teaching at NHEHS is exactly what I imagined teaching would be like when I got my first teaching job; it's what teaching should be!"
